Custom Web Apps

Over the years, numerous clients have engaged Entrance to build a custom web app. Many leading edge firms have found that leveraging custom web apps as customer portals increases loyalty (creating "stickiness") and provides a differentiator from their competition that enables them to win and retain more business. Today, people expect easy access to the data they need to do their job and custom web apps allow the business to surface this data on-demand, to any form factor. Well designed web apps also form the basis for a company's mobility/ BYOD strategy.

Custom Apps for Engineering & Manufacturing

Many clients come to Entrance with an existing spreadsheet or legacy application that has been built to take a variety of customer needs as inputs, perform some calculations and generate a configuration of products that meet the needs. These applications are common in the manufacturing or engineering industries. Entrance has experience building and modernizing these "configurator" applications to expand their capabilities and provide intuitive graphical user interfaces.

Line-of-Business Applications

In unique verticals where commercial off-the-shelf applications are not widely available or do not meet the needs of a new market entrant, Entrance provides custom line-of-business applications to drive efficiency in back office workflows. Frequently these applications also integrate with a customer portal as well.

Offline Apps with Data Synchronization

Everyone is going mobile. How do you answer the question "Is there an app for that?" for your business? Entrance has expertise in building Windows and web-based applications which enable the software to work without being connected to the Internet but still synchronize data with a central server when connectivity is available. Offline support is crucial for implementing usable mobile business applications.
